2 DECIDE WHAT "GOOD" MEANS BEFORE YOU OPEN A SEATING CHART

Rules of thumb; every building differs

	FOR THE VIEW	FOR THE ATMOSPHERE	FOR THE VALUE	WATCH OUT FOR
FOOTBALL	Sideline, lower bowl, rows high enough to see plays develop	Lower end zone near the home supporter sections	Upper deck between the 30s	Open-air stadiums: sun, wind and weather by side
BASKETBALL	Sideline, lower bowl, first rows behind the floor seats	Courtside and the lower baseline	Upper-level sideline, first rows	Floor-level seats blocked by benches and staff
HOCKEY	Center ice, a little up from the glass	Behind the net where the home team attacks twice	Upper-level center	Rows at the glass: you see a great deal of glass
BASEBALL	Behind home plate, infield	Outfield bleachers	Upper deck behind home	Sun: check which sections get shade at that start time
CONCERTS	Lower bowl, side, facing the stage at an angle	Floor, general admission near the front	Side sections of the upper level	"Side stage" and "limited view" labels
BROADWAY	Center orchestra, mid-rows; front mezzanine	Front orchestra	Rear mezzanine, center	"Partial view" labels and overhangs above the rear orchestra

3 READ THE LISTING: SIX FIELDS, EVERY TIME

The same row can be a strong buy on one listing and a poor one on another

A Section, row, seat numbers
A listing that hides the row or the seat numbers gives you less to check.

B Seats together
For two or more, confirm the listing states the seats are side by side.

C View notes
"Obstructed," "limited" and "partial view" are printed for a reason.

D Total price
U.S. sellers must show mandatory fees upfront. Compare that number only.

E Delivery method
Verified tickets usually arrive in the team's or venue's own app.

F Primary or resale
If the official seller still has that section, compare against it first.

4 THE SEAT-FIRST METHOD

Choose the seat, then find the lowest honest total for it

Set the seat
Section and row range, chosen from the table above and a photo from that section.

Price the official seller
Note the face value for that section before looking at resale.

Compare totals
Same section, same row range, total price with fees, across sites.

Set your ceiling
Fix a top price and use a price alert. There is no single best day to buy.

Method. Public information only: league and company announcements, team releases and trade press, current as of November 25, 2026. Seat guidance is general; check a photo from the section before paying. Disclosure. ReservedSeat.com does not sell tickets. It is sponsored by GoodSeats.com, a resale marketplace under common ownership whose listings are supplied through TicketNetwork.
